On a separate piece of paper, answer the following questions following appropriate response to literature guidelines:

1. How does Winston describe his encounter with the prole prostitute?
2. Explain the Party's stance on sexual relations.
3. What are the proles compared to in chapter VII? How are they "free?" How is this contradicted?
4. Who are Jones, Aaronson and Rutherford? How are they a contrast to the proles?
5. There are many "rules" not written down. What are a few of these rules, and what are the consequences for breaking them?
6. In chapter VIII, the dark haired girl re-surfaces. What are the dangerous implications of her presence in the prole section immediately after Winston leaves the antique shop?
7. What is the place of "no darkness?"
